

NATIONAL INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY AND ENGINEERING COMPENSATION SURVEY

Our national surveys are sponsored by the Employer Associations of America (EAA), of which The Employers Council is a member, and include national as well as local data.

This survey provides the current data you need to attract, retain, and motivate key information technology and engineering talent. Comprehensive data from 1,300 organizations across the nation for approximately 180 job titles is provided on base salaries, bonus/incentive eligibility & actual bonus payments, total compensation, as well as salary ranges. The salary reports show the available compensation data broken out by industry, sales volume/annual operating budget, asset size, employer size, profit status (for profit, non-profit, public sector) as well as geographic areas and individual states (including Utah). Data is effective as of May 1, 2011.

Wide Range of IT and Engineering Jobs

The 180 job titles, 93 engineering and 87 information technology, cover the following job families: IT & engineering executives; engineering professionals (aerospace, chemical, civil, design, document, electrical, generic, industrial, mechanical, manufacturing, quality/test, sales/application, & software); and information systems professionals (applications, business analyst, database administration, HRIS, maintenance, network, operating systems, telecommunications, user/technical support, & web).

Industry Sectors

The Survey focuses on the needs of your organization by providing relevant, industry-specific compensation data. Primary industry sectors include durable & non-durable goods manufacturing, education, finance, health services, leisure & hospitality, professional & business services, public administration, wholesale & retail trade, utilities, among several others.
